(Newsbriefs continued)

The Friends of Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute have donated $5,000 to the LPPI Patients' Benefit Fund.

The fund helps provide patient amenities—loans and gifts to patients without personal funds for emergency transportation, phone calls, bus fare, grooming supplies, cigarettes and other incidentals; community outing expenses including admission fees; Christmas and other holiday and birthday celebrations; and special purchases such as toys and games for pediatric patients.

The Friends of LPPI is a group of volunteers who support the work of LPPI by helping patients, educating the community on matters pertaining to mental health, fundraising for the institute and supporting research and training.

Hospitals and Clinics employees who use materials containing mercury are reminded that it is considered a hazardous chemical and cannot be placed into the general waste/sewage system. The following precautions should be taken:

- Place mercury-tipped enteral feeding tubes for disposal into a plastic bag labeled "Hazardous Waste—Mercury." Place in the appropriate bins on the unit for Materiel Services to pick up.
- In the event of a mercury spill, notify Campus Police immediately at x1414. No other personnel should attempt to clean up the spill.

Applications are now being accepted for the 1984-85 Fulbright Fellowships for graduate study or research abroad.

Applicants must be US citizens, who hold a bachelor's degree or the equivalent, and must be proficient in the language of the host country. Candidates may not hold a PhD; those in medicine must have an MD.

For further information and application material contact Carmen Hoover, Graduate Division, Room S 144. Deadline for submission is September 30, 1983.

Edward B. Shaw, MD, and William K. Hamilton, MD, were presented baccarat crystal bears, and Franklin Jacobson, JD, an honorary plaque, during the Medical Staff Annual Dinner on June 9.

Shaw, professor emeritus, Pediatrics, was recognized for his years of service in the School of Medicine and in the Department of Pediatrics, which he chaired from 1958 to 1966, and for his work in helping to eradicate polio.

Hamilton, professor and chair of the Department of Anesthesia since 1967, was recognized for his leadership in the department—now one of the most highly regarded in the country, his contributions to UCSF's clinical programs—particularly in surgical services and the intensive care units, and for his services as president of the medical staff from 1978 to 1980. Hamilton was recently appointed vice dean and associate dean for Clinical and Professional Affairs.

Jacobson has been a member of the hospital's administrative staff since 1976. He was recognized for his extensive contributions to UCSF's medical staff programs and quality assurance efforts.

Rodney S. Lee of San Francisco is the first School of Dentistry graduating student to receive the Francis A. Sooy Chancellor's Cup. Lee received the award during commencement exercises on June 11, recognizing the most outstanding student in the class.

Lee also received the Alpha Omega Fraternity Award, the American Association of Orthodontists Award and the UCSF Dental Alumni Scholarship Award during the annual pre-commencement awards ceremony in May.

Other multiple award winners included: six-time winner Stephen A. Fredette, also of San Francisco, three-time winners Tommy Jow of Sacramento and Donna Wojdon of Chatsworth, and two-time winners Robert Brent of Pleasanton, Larry Odono of Monterey Park, Oscar Quintana of Los Angeles, Armando Islas of West Covina and Lloyd P. Nattkemper of Tustin.

Three major awards were presented to graduating students during the School of Nursing commencement ceremonies on June 11.

- Cynthia J. Eggers, a BS candidate from South Gate, CA, received the Florence Nightingale Award, recognizing the student who, in undergraduate studies, best demonstrates leadership, scholarship and clinical expertise.
- Diana Gomez of San Francisco received the Outstanding Master of Science Award, presented to the student in the master's program who best demonstrates leadership, scholarship, expertise in the area of specialization and potential for significant contribution to nursing and scholarship.
- Hiroko Minami of Japan received the Distinguished Dissertation Award recognizing the doctoral student whose dissertation best exemplifies scholarliness and innovation and best contributes to the discipline of nursing. Minami graduated in December of last year and is presently teaching at St. Luke's College of Nursing in Tokyo.

Dorothy Oda, associate professor and Holly Skodol Wilson, professor, both Mental Health and Community Nursing, were presented Teacher of the Year Awards by graduating master's and BS/MS students respectively. Marilyn J. Dodd, assistant professor, Physiological Nursing, received the Eugenia Wachter Award, given to a junior faculty member for efforts in research, and June T. NEWS BRIEFS

Willie Van Ross, MD, of Compton, has been named the winner of the prestigious John B. Harris Award, given annually to the graduating UCSF student who best exemplifies the qualities of the late teacher, physician and civil rights advocate.

Ross graduated from the School of Medicine this spring and will do his internship in pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Oakland beginning in July.

Harris, for whom the award is named, was a member of the Department of Medicine for 20 years and of the CVRI for 13 years until his death in 1973. He was vitally concerned about the civil rights movement and, in particular, with extending educational opportunities to disadvantaged groups. He was one of the founders of the UCSF Black Caucus and an advisor to black medical students.

Robert L. Boyd, DDS, Linda D. Ferrell, MD, and Jane S. Norbeck, DNS, received Distinction in Teaching Awards from the SF Division of the Academic Senate.

Boyd is assistant professor, Growth and Development, School of Dentistry; Ferrell, assistant professor, Pathology; Norbeck, associate professor, Mental Health and Community Nursing, School of Nursing.

In addition, Richard A. Crass, assistant professor, Surgery, received honorable mention.

"The Women's Faculty Association" of the School of Medicine and the Bay Area Chapter of the Association for Women in Science are cosponsoring an informational program entitled, "Coping with the System: How to Make it Work for You," on Wednesday, June 22, from 4 to 6 p.m. in Room S 214.

Guest speakers will include David Ramsay, Academic Vice Chancellor; Dorothy Bainton, professor, Pathology; Marion Nestle, associate dean, School of Medicine, and chair of the Chancellor's Advisory Committee on the Status of Women; Mary Ellen Ginther, coordinator of Academic Personnel; Janice Babula, assistant to the dean, Graduate Division; and Delmar Booker, assistant employment manager, Personnel.

All interested faculty and staff are encouraged to attend. For further information contact Judy Aggeler, x1769.

The John E. Gurley Memorial Lecture will be held on Friday, July 29, at the Holiday Inn Golden Gateway.

Marcus A. Conant, MD, associate clinical professor, Dermatology and co-director, UCSF Kaposi's Sarcoma Clinic, will discuss the incidence, clinical characteristics, oral manifestations, treatment and prognosis of AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and what it means to the dental practitioner.

The lecture is named after the late John E. Gurley, a '08 graduate of the UC Dental School, whose teaching career spanned some 48 years until his mandatory retirement in 1956. He remained a UC consultant until his death in 1963.

Enrollment for this one-day program is open to members of the UC Dental Alumni Association and other interested persons. Tuition is $40 and includes lunch. For further information contact Continuing Education in Dentistry, x1101.

Some 150 people concerned about their possible exposure to PCB during the May 15 fire at One Market Plaza have been screened at the Occupational Health Clinic at SFGH as of the first week of June.

None of the people had significant symptoms that could be associated with PCB exposure, declared UCSF's Charles Becker, MD, chief of the Division of Occupational Medicine at SFGH. He said that some people suffered skin, eye and throat irritation due to other gases in the fire.

Those attending the clinic included firefighters, people involved in cleanup, members of the press, employees of One Market Plaza and the general public. They were asked to complete a questionnaire on their exposure, including their activities and whereabouts during the fire and time spent in the area.

On the basis of their responses, most people were judged to have possibly been exposed to PCB, and were asked to complete a urine collection, so levels of porphyrin, a chemical that occurs naturally in the body, can be measured. Increased urinary porphyrins have been shown in several studies to be associated with exposure to PCB.

Members of the UC Retirement System have an opportunity to vote for a member of the UCRS Board, which advises the president on the administration of the University's retirement system.

An election will be held during June to fill one of two positions representing UCSF members who are not members of the Academic Senate. The person elected to the board will serve a four-year term beginning July 1.

Ballots and information on the election and candidates have been mailed to the home addresses of each UCRS member who is not in the Academic Senate. To be valid, ballots must be returned to the Retirement System via first class or campus mail by Thursday, June 30.

The two UCSF candidates are Richard T. Aleguas and David S. Layne. The remaining 14 candidates from other campuses are: Jeanne M. Cook, Robert C. Edwards and Frank J. Giunta, UCB; David W. Haggerty, Judy C. Janes and Joyce A. Wad, UCD; Darlene M. Powers and John Shuman, UCR; Brian R. Hersh, UCSB; Rachel M. Chavez, Norman G. Knight and Margaret C. Shea, UCSD; and Robin D. UCSF's Moffitt and Long are "magnet" hospitals, according to a study released by the American Academy of Nursing.

The study, called "Magnet Hospitals: Attraction and Retention of Professional Nurses," is based on interviews with nursing directors and staff nurses from 41 hospitals across the US—13 of them in the West. The hospitals were chosen because nurses consider them good places to work, as evidenced by their low vacancy and turnover rates.

The study found several common threads among magnet hospitals: highly qualified nursing directors who support and listen to their staffs, a decentralized management structure that allows nurses to make decisions, competitive salaries and benefits, flexible work schedules, opportunities for education and promotion and a strong feeling of professional pride.

In addition to UCSF, the California hospitals named in the study were Alta Bates (Berkeley), El Camino (Mountain View) and Stanford Medical Center.

The course is sponsored by the SF Bay Area Regional Poison Control Center at SFGH, and is designed for pharmacists, physicians, nurses and other health professionals.

Advance registration is $135; $150 at the door. For furthur information contact Kenneth W. Lem, PharmD, UCSF Continuing Education in Pharmacy, x4194.

A series of workshops to help hospital staff become more aware of cultural differences among Indochinese refugees and their implications for health care will be established at two UCSF-affiliated hospitals that treat large numbers of these patients—SFGH and Valley Medical Center, Fresno.

The program is funded in part by a $25,000, one-year grant from the Association of Western Hospitals.

Indochinese refugees are often erroneously viewed as a homogeneous group, according to UCSF's Peter Sommers, MD, assistant professor of Family and Community Medicine and director of the Family Practice Residency Program at SFGH, who points out that while most are Vietnamese, there are many Laotian, Cambodian, Ethnic Chinese and H'mong as well. Each group has its own customs, language and cultural beliefs.

The current project grew from a pilot program begun two years ago to train family practice,residents and nurses in cross-cultural family care. Advisory committees at each hospital will help the project coordinator to develop instructional materials, including video tapes and case histories. The material will be presented through a series of 12 workshops to 360 staff members at both hospitals.
